Janzen Morgan Farm, near Edmonton, Alberta, is Canada's premier Morgan breeder. The Janzens, Will, Dorothy, Bruce and Kari, have raised over 500 foals and sold some 940 Morgans.

Sales include the stallion, JMF Royal Secret, a Windhover Regency son, and JMF Beam Song, a Whispering High Beam daughter, New Zealand's Morgan Foundation stock. Also WC or GN show horses, JMF Beams Winter Win, Midtone, JMF Vigilace, JMF Ideal Gambler, JMF Wild Card, Tetonia Black Rose, JMF Sanssouci, JMF Shadow Catcher, JMF White Knight, Devicter Grayson Regent. As well, the Janzens have sold and delivered Morgans to breeding farms, families and individuals from coast to coast in Canada and the United States.

Janzen Morgan Farm decided early on that if they focused on the versatile characteristics associated with the Brunk lines and stood well-bred black stallions, their herd would attract attention. Drawn by attractive, athletic movers with high intelligence and tractability and by Beamington's dominance in sire ratings, Janzen Morgan Farm searched for a black son of Beamington.

With a mortgaging of the farm, they bought Whispering High Beam (Beamington x Highover Desiree by Donlyn of Wind-Crest out of a Waseeka's Nocturne daughter) in 1982. The Janzens then started a campaign of extensive travel to acquire a large herd of breeding stock with a wide range of promoted bloodlines. In 1983, a second black son of Beamington, Windhover Regency was purchased to use and cross with the expected High Beam daughters to intensify the traits of Beamington, Flyhawk and Senator Graham.

These matings tended to produce showable offspring with dispositions and athleticism suitable for family and working horses.

So it was Whispering High Beam, with over 150 foals, that put Janzen Morgan Farm on the Morgan map. And it was Windhover Regency, with his over 260 foals and his overwhelming appeal, that came to be the farm's image. Irish Entertainment, two-time RWC Stallion, out of a WC Beamington daughter, Justa Joy, intensified the Beamington bloodlines further.
