

SC Morgans in VT stands three popular sport horse stallions

Sherry Cheeseman Siebenaler was only 11 years old when her father traded a washing machine for a Morgan/Appaloosa cross named Dobby to stop his daughter from riding the family's dairy cows.

A lot has happened to Sherry since those days, but one thing that has stayed the same is her love for horses, Morgans in particular.

Long-time Morgan breeder focusing on reining in color

Her 74-acre Vermont farm is home to 12-plus Morgans. It is located on the small island of North Hero in the middle of Lake Champlain near Burlington, 15 minutes from Canada and 10 minutes from New York.

After years of riding saddleseat, huntseat and western, she now focuses on breeding, selling, and competing with traditional and colorful Morgans in reining. And she is successful: most of her youngsters are sold as weanlings.

"About 10 years ago I was ready to try something different," Sherry says. "Colored Morgans caught my eye but I had a hard time finding the type I wanted. So I decided to raise my own."

She now stands three talented stallions who offer breeders both traditional and colorful choices – plus the talent demanded by sport horse enthusiasts.

The 14.3-hand Rimlo Black Pepper

2004 NMHRA Rookie Champion ABCM Liz's Dreamwalker

(Rimlo Black Talent x Robbins Cotton Queen) is producing get who excel in harness, dressage and both English and Western Pleasure.

Recently moved from Montana to Vermont, the palomino ABCM Liz's Dreamwalker (Sun Hills Montana x Meziadan Mezalee) is a Grand and World Champion reiner and recipient of the 2004 NMRHA Rookie Championship title.

Sherry's third stallion needs no introduction: Speedking (Speedramp Walker x Julie Bird) is well known and respected as the sire of foals who are easy to train, have nice conformation and good movement off both ends. He is a golden palomino.

Sherry says she never buys horses based on color. She has selected all three of her stallions because of their bloodlines, body styles, brains and the quality of their get.

Sherry also operates one of New England's few semen collection facilities soon to be approved and licensed for European export. All three of her stallions will be approved for exportation.
