

Star Material colts bring home blues for Walterway Hills

Success continues to follow WC-producing stallion Star Material (Talent Town x Gold Star's Ballerina by Stonewall's Main Event) and his owner Larry Hartsock with winner after winner coming from his Walterway Hills Farm in Castlewood, VA.

In 2002 alone, WC Walterway's

Remember Me (Star Material x Yorktown's Forget Me Not) was 3-Year-Old 5-Gaited UPHA Champion at the American Royal, in a class packed with WC entries. The gelding is owned by Kenny and Ceil Wheeler of Memphis, TN and was shown by Nelson Green.

"He has the power of a stake horse," Larry comments, "and is flashy, a liver chestnut with silver mane and tail." At Walterway Hills is a three-year-old full sister to Remember Me and three embryos transfer full siblings for 2003.

Star Material prospects in training now are High Enough, park pleasure, with Merrill Murray; Call Waiting, three-year-old 3-gaited mare with Mike Roberts; and four very promising Star Material two-year-olds with Roger Meade.

Twelve foals by Star Material are due at Walterway Hills in 2003, with a few youngsters still available at the farm.

The priority at Walterway Hills is getting mares in foal – and the job is getting done, including with shipped semen. The farm's mares were selected specifically for his stallion and many have been successful show horses.

"Star Material is big, very, very athletic and charismatic," Larry says. "He has a lot of 'top,' a long neck and a nice head and is an elegant mover."

"When I pick our mares for him I evaluate pedigrees first," Larry says, "then I look to see if they are nice individuals. Some of the best crosses with Star Material are Globetrotter, Yorktown, Attache and Sultan."

Walterway Hills sends many of its foals into the show ring, obviously with good results. "We want people to see our foals show," Larry says. "That's the best way we can advertise the stallion and promote the investment our buyers make."
