

MacGregors raise breed standards

Stable promises integrity, hard work, education, friendship & accountability

MacGregor Stables, Murfreesboro, TN

Scot & Lynn MacGregor

MacGregor Stables started 17 years ago with one objective in mind: enhancing the natural Tennessee Walking Horse.

Scot and Lynn MacGregor have a beautiful farm in Murfreesboro, TN, just minutes from the interstate. They purchased the facility in 2001 with the goal of raising the standards of breeding and training good quality walking horses. They train and develop weanlings, yearlings, two year olds and aged horses for the show ring or for your pleasure.

Their mission statement: As a business the MacGregors have challenged themselves to the highest standards, offering customers the opportunity to be one of the many friends who share in the desire to be part of a group.

Each horse is cared for equally in the best way possible. Each customer is offered integrity, hard work, education, friendship and accountability. Each horse is offered love, direction, interesting work, obedience and play. In consistency horses develop greatness; in love they develop loyalty.

The mission: To train patiently and thoroughly enough to allow riders the full enjoyment of their horses while at MacGregor Stables and after they leave. By training using directed repetitive communication, the horses learn their jobs to a level that allows any rider to enjoy them to their fullest potential. MacGregors also offer a club atmosphere, family environment and a clean facility.

Once you're at MacGregor Stables, you have access to professional support including training, lessons, farrier, dental, chiropractic, acupuncture and veterinary services.

The breeding goals: MacGregors view breeding as the ultimate opportunity to develop and naturally enhance the Tennessee Walking Horse. They chose to promote flat-shod horses so that interested breeders can study the stallion's natural gaits to better determine how best to breed their mares.

MacGregors promote stallions that give the industry a future, horses that grow up to hard walk and can be easily ridden by any rider. They want colts with balance in their conformation to make it easier for them to perform. They breed for colts with intelligence so they can learn quicker, muscling so they hold up under hard work, wide-set eyes so that they spook less and straight and well-designed legs so they stay sound. All their stallions have been chosen to meet these goals.

It's Scot and Lynn MacGregor's hope that you will experience this difference.

